ecycler.com

Want to set up your own recycling program and get recyclables to redeem for cash?

ecycler.com is a new way to recycle. It is a website that brings together people giving away recyclables and those interested in collecting them.

Start your own (or enhance an existing) recycling program in your area using the ecycler.com website. This is not a get-rich-quick scheme but a serious effort to help people recycle and make some money.

We are a new company looking for people who will become collectors and set up their own ecycler-based recycling programs in their community. Using the ecycler website, ecycler.com, you can print your own marketing posters, business cards and get people in your area to collect recyclables for you, such as from individual households, apartments, businesses, or groups that will save these materials for collection by you.

ATTENTION Discarders: If you currently recycle, list your recyclables to give away on ecycler.com!

Currently, the use of our website is free.
